27/11/2021

Introduction:

Gender studies have been a pivotal area of learning and research in universities, educational institutions and social organizations. Gender based equality has become an essential objective behind various social and cultural movements in different parts of the world. The nature of gender issues may vary from community to community but the concern behind remains the same. The social association for gender sensitivity has a long history. But its core objective of exerting equality among social segments remains undone. Therefore a wider, comprehensive deliberation has been essentially expected. Actually gender doesn't mean just a biologically based distinction as man and woman but as WHO refers it is all about socially constructed roles, behaviors, activities, and attributes that a given society considers appropriate for men and women. Internal Quality Assurance Cell of KKM College,Manwath organizes this webinar to elaborate further discussions.

I have a great deal of pleasure in welcoming Prof Dr Rakesh Chandra sir from Lucknow University for gracing his valuable presence to inaugurate the webinar and deliver key note address.

Being an organizer, I would like to state the objectives behind hosting the event.

- 1) To know what are the sensitive needs of gender.
- 2) To investigate, interrogate and explain the realities.
- 3) To explore the gender based equality in the present social conditions.
- 4) To think, examine and decide over the socio-cultural and gender based issues.
- 5) To initiate a deliberation over the issues which have been rarely discussed or studied.
- 6) To compare and contrast the fact based reasons behind gender inequality in the world.
- 7) To comprehend the unequal power relations between men and women.
- 8) To elaborate the possibilities to create gender-friendly atmosphere at working places,

We have begun to raise our daughters more like sons. But few have the courage to raise our sons more like our daughters.
